Harvest

The second ten days of September.

Terroir and altitude: 700 meters above sea level

Frappato is grown in vineyards at an altitude of 700 meters, where the climate and the soil, rich in silt and clay, favour the vines' optimal development. These conditions allow the grapes to ripen in a balanced manner, helping to define a refined aromatic profile and a natural, expressive vibrancy.

Winemaking and ageing

Following a careful selection of the grapes, they are destemmed and macerated in temperature-controlled stainless steel vats. The wine is aged on the lees in stainless steel vats for 9 months and then in the bottle for at least 3 months.

In the glass, a vivid, luminous cherry-red colour shines through, highlighting its expressive immediacy and natural brilliance.

Intense and fragrant, the bouquet clearly evokes red plums, redcurrants, red prickly pears and sweet cherries, in a fresh and captivating fruity profile. A delicate hint of rose softens the opening, whilst winter medlar enriches the bouquet with a more nuanced and distinctive note. Mediterranean accents of myrtle and bayberry complete the picture, lending it distinctiveness and character.

The palate is characterised by freshness and savouriness, with a salty attack that immediately lends the wine vigour and dynamism. The development is lively and vibrant, underpinned by a lovely tension on the palate and a balance that ensures a smooth, continuous drinking experience. The finish is long, savoury and persistent, with a clean finish that prolongs the pleasure.

At 700 meters above sea level, the Frappato grape finds ideal conditions for preserving its aromatic integrity, freshness and expressive precision. The daily temperature fluctuations help to define its fruity and floral profile, contributing to a wine that is sleek, dynamic and beautifully balanced.

With remarkable clarity of expression, the Frappato captures the essence of the highlands with lightness, precision and character. The fruity notes, the tension on the palate and the salty finish blend together to create a refined and captivating red wine, which wins you over with its balance and drinkability.
